BILL CLINTON Lets look at the facts. We lost a lot of manufacturing jobs in the 12 years before I became President. Weve gained manufacturing jobs since Ive been President. Weve negotiated over 200 separate trade agreements. Lets just take California. In California, we made 37 billion dollars worth of telecommunications equipment eligible for export for the first time. Were selling everything from from — from telephones to CDs to rice in Japan. Were selling American automobiles in Japan now. I visited a Chrysler dealership in Japan. Were No. 1 in automobile manufacturing production and sales around the world again, the first time since 1970s. Why? Because weve had tough aggressive trade policies, and because weve got interest rates down. We have a good, stable economic policy. Because we reduced the deficit four years in a row. For the first time in the 20th century the President has done that in all four years and thats why I dont want to see us blow a big hole in the deficit with a tax program we cant pay for, so your interest rates will go up, and youll have to pay back in higher interest rates what you allegedly will get in a tax cut, so I say keep working on expanding the markets. More than half of these 10 and a half million new jobs are in higher wage areas and well have more manufacturing and sales around the world.
