BOB DOLE The President wants to increase spending 20 percent over the next six years. I want to increase spending 14 percent, thats how simple it is. I want the government to pinch pennies for a change instead of the American families. Were talking about six percentage points over six years, and with that money you give it back to the working people. You also provide opportunity scholarships so low income parents will have the same choice that others have in sending their children to better schools. It will work, and when it does work, Mr. President, I know youll congratulate me.
