AUDIENCE Senator Dole, my name is Jason Milligan, active duty military and small business owner, and my question is; What is your position on closing the gap between military and civilian pay scales?

BOB DOLE Jason, I appreciate that very much, being a former military man myself. You know, we have 17, 000 men and women today wearing our uniform that receive food stamps. It shouldnt happen in America. We have men and women wearing our uniform in substandard housing. It shouldnt happen in America. And its time we take a look at the pay scales. Did get a 3 percent increase this year, but thats not enough. If were going to ask young men and young women to protect us and defend us around the world, and weve had more deployments under this administration than any time in history. Fifty times we deployed troops around the world. Every time you do that you take a risk. Somebody, you know, maybe your son, maybe your grandson, maybe somebody else. But I think anybody who wears a uniform is a great American. Remember Vietnam? Remember when people almost used to walk across the street rather than have a contact with somebody who was in Vietnam? Thats all behind us now, and it should be behind us, and the forgotten war, the Korean War, but I guess I can just answer you very plainly, Jason. Thank you for doing what youre doing. America owes you a debt of gratitude.

BILL CLINTON May I ask you a question? What service are you in?

AUDIENCE Im in the United States Navy, sir.

BILL CLINTON And what kind of small business do you have?

AUDIENCE I have an Amway business.
